

ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY

Blåtand AB turns wild berries into a high quality food product while also contributing to long-term sustainable development. We do this by operating as set out in the present policy document.

Blåtand AB's environmental initiatives are important for the company's long-term profitability. We ensure our ever decreasing negative environmental impact by:

- Preventing contamination.
- Complying with applicable environmental legislation and other requirements.
- Striving for continuous improvement and continuously reducing our negative environmental impact.

Taking finance and customer requirements into account, Blåtand AB's resources for positive environmental management are directed towards:

- Using raw materials that have the least possible negative environmental impact.
- Continuously reducing the amount of waste generated by our operations.
- Putting every effort into our transport solutions being efficient. Transport is optimised to minimise harmful emissions.
- Managing energy and resources efficiently.
- Involving all employees, providing them with information about our environmental initiatives and encouraging them to contribute actively to continuous improvements that minimise the company's negative environmental impact.
- Openly communicating information about our environmental initiatives and making said information available to regulatory bodies, customers and the general public.
